Academic & Academic Related Appointments

2018- Research Faculty, George Mason University (GMU)

I am senior data analyst and project manager at State Department’ s Global Terrorism Database Project, which is compiling data on terrorist incidents across the globe.

2017-2018 Research Scholar and Adjunct Faculty George Mason University (GMU), Arlington, VA.

I am research scholar at Terrorism, Transnational Crime, and Corruption Center (TraCCC) which currently runs a project on the trafficking of antiquities in Syria. This project has been granted by U.S. State Department.

2015-2017 Visiting Scholar, George Mason University (GMU), Arlington, VA.

My research focused on the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS) funding streams and finances. Before moving to the United States, I was able to conduct field research in Turkey, including Turkish cities neighboring Syria, to document how ISIS-linked smugglers are operating, and generating revenue. Furthermore, my research included how ISIS’ illicit financial flows and money laundering activities. Finally, the research includes a focus on counterfeit goods and their increase in Turkey and involvement of ISIS-linked trafficking.

2014-2015 Director of Regional Studies Centre at the Global Policy and Strategy Institute (GPAS), Ankara, Turkey

My research at GMU was funded by GPAS. I represented GPAS in the events and workshops held in the US. I was responsible for directing regional security studies at the GPAS while I was a visiting scholar in the United States.

2010-2011 Director of Research Centers, Anti-Smuggling and Organized Crime Department (ASOD)

I was the director of four research centers at the Turkish Academy and Drug and Organized Crime (TADOC). While this was a position with Turkish National Police (TNP), it was academic and research oriented. During my tenure, I conducted research on drug trafficking, illicit economy in the Middle East, human smuggling, and cigarette smuggling.

2006-2010 Researcher at TraCCC (Transnational Crime, Terrorism, and Corruption Center) at George Mason University, Arlington, VA

I became involved in various research projects such as criminal networks in Central Asia, Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) trafficking, and drug trafficking in Africa

Additional Professional Appointments

2011-2014 Igdir City Police, TNP, Chief of Organized Crime Department

I was chief of Anti-smuggling and Organized Department of Igdir city - neighboring Iran, Nakchivan Autonomous Region, and Armenia. I carried out almost 40 police operations against trafficking and smuggling groups as well as terrorist organizations. While in this position, I developed the “Sectoral Fighting Model,” which the TNP implemented nationwide and transferred to policy models used in Pakistan. This model included variables that belonged to criminal procedures, police tactics and police ethics.

2002-2006 ASOD, Chief of Turkish Undercover Unit and Witness Protection Unit

I served as founding director of undercover and witness protection units. After I analyzed the systems in Europe and in the US, I founded both units based on a best model that fits Turkish law.

2001-2002 Kosovo United Nations Police Force, Regional Researcher and Analyst

1998-2001 ASOD, Organized Crime Division

1996-1998 Ankara City Police, Public Order Division
